

Further information for National Event, February, 19th, 2012

Depending upon the number of lifters entered by latest date 28th January (with an arranged proviso of an additional thirty-six hours to contact myself for lifters successfully competing at the now three additional qualifying events to be held on 29th January, 2012), please understand that the National event may finish at a late hour: This event, previously always held over two days, though recently balloted to be on a single day, will be unique. Please be assured that I will do everything in my power to provide a smooth-running, entertaining and ultimately successful event for you all.

Here are just some of many local hotels (all within three miles from Dudley College) for those of you arriving from afar –

It is my intention to have remedial massage, etc available at this event; students, competent at various levels, will be in attendance throughout the day. Informed that skilled Thai massage therapists will be on premises and available at nominal fee also.

In process of accessing video/photos/DVD/etc – via Dudley College students – to record the event – at nominal fee.

I will ensure that, together with spectator fees, virtually all monies paid for anything at this event, will be forwarded to the White House Cancer support Centre, Dudley. This is an amazing pro-active establishment, at which I have held many talks/seminars and is a source of great help for my local patients.

I intend to make this a memorable event for you all - if I can arrange anything else – within this relatively tight time-frame for me, given the immediate cancer flare-up situation, I'm presently overseeing - details will obviously be updated. Watch this space! Eleven weeks today to event as I write this!

Wishing you the best of success with your training and looking forward to (re) meeting with you all in Dudley on 19th February, 2012!
